

How much disability insurance do you need?

Could you manage to live without your paycheck for a while?

Complete this worksheet, check your savings account, and consider the value of disability insurance:

1. Calculate your total net monthly household income:

Your net monthly income (A) $ _____ Investment income (e.g. IRAs, stock) $ _____
(after taxes)

Partner's net monthly income $ _____ Other income $ _____
(after taxes)

Add up the above to estimate your total net monthly household income (B) = $ _____

2. Calculate your total monthly household expenses:

Groceries $ _____ Transportation costs (gas, maintenance, car payments) $ _____

Mortgage/rent $ _____ Child care/school fees $ _____

Utilities (electricity, water, gas, etc.) $ _____ Loans/credit care payments $ _____

Auto, homeowner's medical & dental insurance $ _____ Other expenses $ _____

Add up the above to estimate your total monthly household expenses (C) = $ _____

3. Calculate the difference between your total monthly household income and your total monthly household expenses. This gives you a pretty good idea of how your finances are holding up currently.

Monthly income surplus/shortfall (B - C) (D) = $ _____

4. Calculate the difference between your monthly household income and your total monthly household expenses – minus your net monthly income (which you could lose if you become disabled).

Monthly income surplus/shortfall if disability occurs (D - A) = $ _____

The total in this worksheet is approximately how much additional money your family may need if you become disabled and are unable to work. Disability insurance can help you meet that need by paying you a portion of your covered earnings in the event of a covered disability.
